August Issue Tax Update; Webinar reminder — Aug 4, 2026

The August issue leads with the Twitchco court case, which gives ERC protective refund claims real teeth by holding the IRS can't use the tax benefit rule to tax a deduction that was wrong in a year the statute of limitations has already closed — useful backing for clients who reported 2026 ERC refunds as income while filing a protective claim. Other articles cover a little-known trust strategy for deferring capital gains on asset sales for years or decades, calculating Section 199A deductions across multiple businesses (including how aggregation can rescue or enlarge the deduction), and a reminder that S corp owners' dental, vision, and Medicare premiums qualify for the same three-step W-2/Schedule 1 treatment as major medical coverage. Separately, Bradford is promoting a live webinar this Thursday, August 6 at 2:00 PM, prompted by a case where a preparer was hit with $130,000 in IRS penalties over a client-set S corp salary — the session covers how to set defensible reasonable-compensation numbers.

Checkpoint (Thomson Reuters)

Checkpoint News — Daily Update, August 4, 2026

Top stories: the AICPA released its 2026 Not-for-Profit Entities best-practices guide with updated GAAP disclosure examples, a Virginia lawmaker is pressing the IRS to fix a married-filing-jointly processing issue causing delays and penalties, and a tax panel is calling for proactive AI governance as multinationals reassess transfer pricing and IP allocation around AI deployment. On the federal side, the IRS is reminding eligible taxpayers about its newer automatic penalty relief process for those with a history of timely filing, "Trump Accounts" for employees' dependents are now live (with ERISA and tax considerations employers need to understand), and UBS was fined $125 million by U.S. regulators — the largest-ever civil fine against a broker-dealer for Bank Secrecy Act/anti-money-laundering violations. Also notable: Todd Blanche's AG confirmation is moving forward after rescinding a criticized "anti-weaponization" fund, and GASB has declined to require state/local governments to disclose cyber vulnerabilities, reasoning the disclosures would be stale and could hand hackers a roadmap. Accounting Today

Tax Pro Today — August 4, 2026

Lead story argues the October tax crunch firms dread every year is self-inflicted — caused not by the deadline itself but by treating July and August as downtime instead of using it to get ahead of extended returns. Also covered: the Senate Finance Committee voted nearly unanimously to advance the bipartisan Taxpayer Assistance and Service Act aimed at improving IRS operations, the IRS quietly created a new Tax

Professional Management Office that changes how it oversees every credentialed preparer and EA (most practitioners reportedly had no idea it was coming), and the IRS cut multilingual service offerings from 20 languages down to seven following a Trump executive order.

CPA Trendlines

"Succession Planning That Can't Wait" — live webinar today

CPA Trendlines Academy is running a live CPE webinar today, August 4, from 12:00–2:00 PM EDT (9:00–11:00 AM PDT), taught by Erin Daiber of Well Balanced Accountants: 2 CPE credits, $99. The pitch is that most firms have at least one partner heading toward retirement without a real transition plan — firms that start planning 3–5 years out end up with higher firm value, confident successors, and clients who stay through the transition, while firms that wait until a departure is imminent have the decisions made for them.

Other Important Emails

Terry Wolfram — Re: Pope Twin Isles Partner Basis document

Sent back edited version of the basis acknowledgment doc; wants the writeup clarified to show apparent excess distributions arose because original capital contributions weren't fully reflected. Relevant ahead of today's 2 PM Pope meeting.

Denke (csmail@hascall-denke.com) — Re: Banking view-only seat

Staff member says the request still isn't done; has been working 4–5 AM to 3–5 PM plus Saturdays working through a priority list, and will notify you once it's set up — won't be tomorrow.

Mark Reagan, Goldman Sachs — RE: JLL ATS K-1s

Confirms the state K-1 for TCV XI is estimated to be issued 9/30/26 and will post to the portal once available.
