

Daily Briefing

Saturday, August 1, 2026

---

Calendar

No events scheduled today on either Google Calendar (dennismodrak@gmail.com) or Outlook/Microsoft 365 (dennis@modrakcpa.com).

Newsletter Summaries

The four sources you flagged as priority reading — read in full below, not just flagged.

Checkpoint / Thomson Reuters — “Checkpoint News, Week of 7/27/2026”

The Senate Finance Committee advanced the bipartisan Taxpayer Assistance and Service (TAS) Act, aimed at modernizing the IRS and strengthening taxpayer rights — it now heads to the full Senate. New FASB standards, led by an expense-disaggregation rule, take effect in 2027; companies have about five months to determine if they're affected. The IRS issued filing relief for foreign FIFA associations tied to 2026 World Cup participation, and a new bipartisan bill was introduced to fight EFIN theft and tax-preparer fraud. On the state side, rising wealth taxes are pushing some high-net-worth clients to rethink planning or relocate. This email also included an attached HTML copy of the same digest (Checkpoint_News.html); its content mirrors what's summarized here — the connected mail tools don't expose a way to open attachment bytes separately from the message body, so this summary is drawn directly from the full email content.

Bradford Tax Institute — “A Complete 2026 Health Insurance Update for S Corporation Owners”

The S-corp health insurance deduction is still available for 2026, but the piece flags three traps worth knowing for any S-corp clients: (1) the deduction can be wiped out by missing a single reporting requirement even when premiums were paid correctly, (2) the Box 5 Medicare-wages limitation and the family-attribution rule both continue to catch owners by surprise, and (3) if the S-corp reimburses employees for individual health insurance rather than using a compliant arrangement, it risks a penalty of up to $36,500 per employee per year.

Accounting Today — “Grant Thornton to acquire CBIZ for $5B” (Best of the Week digest)

Headline story: Grant Thornton is acquiring CBIZ for $5 billion. This was a links-only weekly roundup, so no full article text was in the email itself — other featured headlines were “Accounting's missing middle,” “How to get double-digit growth,” “IRS kills First Time Abate, replaced by Automatic Exemption,” and “The three questions your firm needs to answer.”

CPA Trendlines — “What AI CEO's Warning Means (and Doesn't) for Accountants”

By Hitendra Patil: argues accountants' work remains safe from AI displacement as long as they're focused on the right kind of work (the piece previews “five reasons” but the full article is behind the PRO paywall). The same digest also flagged a succession-planning framework, a piece on using AI automation for K-1 workflows, and a note that critical thinking remains accountants' most valuable skill as tech changes.

Other Important Emails

- Todoist security alert: “We noticed a new login to your Todoist account” (unread). Likely triggered by connecting Todoist to AgentHub today — worth a quick glance to confirm it was you.

Everything else unread was newsletters/promotions (golf, retail, general news digests) outside the four priority sources — skipped per your filter.

Tasks (Todoist)

- Overdue: “S5” — due 5/20/2026
- Overdue: “FLORIDA EYE” — due 5/20/2026

Nothing new due today.