Bradford Tax Institute — A Complete 2026 Health Insurance Update for S Corporation Owners

The S-corp health insurance deduction is still available for 2026, but the update warns that a single missed reporting step can wipe it out even when every premium was paid correctly. It flags two frequently-missed traps: the Box 5 Medicare-wages limitation and the family attribution rule, either of which can disqualify an otherwise valid deduction. It also warns that S corps reimbursing employees for individual health insurance must use the correct arrangement or risk a penalty of up to $36,500 per employee, per year.

Checkpoint / Thomson Reuters — Checkpoint News, 8/3/2026

Top stories: proposed Earned Wage Access (EWA) legislation could reshape payroll payment infrastructure; a practical Q&A covers how to sequence competing wage-garnishment orders for multi-state employees in a single payroll run; the IAASB has proposed fraud and going-concern updates to its audit standards for less-complex entities; the IRS proposed new rules on foreign tax credit allocation and disallowance; and states are diverging on data-center tax incentives, with Kentucky expanding exemptions as others pull back. Federal news roundup: corporate AI spending is drawing scrutiny over unclear ROI and hallucination-driven risk; Coinbase won dismissal of much of a securities class action; GAO says federal banking regulators lack a process to flag outdated rules; the SEC is distributing $2.3 million to victims of a Belize airport-development scam and is defending an accounting-fraud case against a spirits-company founder; the SEC will hold a September roundtable on 24-hour equity trading; the Tax Court upheld taxation of a taxpayer's Social Security benefits; and TIGTA criticized Congress for inaction on improper payments across four IRS credit programs. No attachments on today's issue.

Checkpoint / Thomson Reuters — Five-Minute Tax Briefing Preview, 8/3/26

Marking National Whistleblower Day, the IRS highlighted its whistleblower program, which has helped recover over $8 billion in taxes since 2007 and paid out more than $1.4 billion in awards. The agency is rolling out new digital tools — an online Form 211 and a centralized fraud-reporting portal — and expanding its "Whistleblower Alert" initiative, while deepening international compliance collaboration with the UK. No attachments on today's issue.

Accounting Today — Daily Briefing, August 3, 2026

Leads with practice-management news: the New England CPA Society named its first board, Kaufman Rossin launched a private-equity practice, and Centri announced promotions. On the technology side, Luca IQ launched an e-file-approved tax engine for CPA firms, alongside Workday's new Financial Audit Agent and Cherry Hill Advisory's AI-enabled internal audit services. On accounting and tax: a new Xero report finds small-business cash flow remains under pressure even as sales improve, and a feature explains what the IRS's new Tax Professional Management Office means for preparers and EAs. Also covers why cloud bookkeeping has become the norm rather than an experiment for bookkeeping firms.
